

How Marine Aquarium Societies of Australia Inc Works

The Marine Aquarium Societies of Australia Incorporated is administered by a committee of representatives from each of the member societies. The role of the representatives that make up the committee is to represent the interests of their society in any discussions and decision making in the furthering of the goals of MASA and each of their own societies. It is the responsibility of each society for determining the method of selecting and communicating with each of their representatives on the MASA Committee.

The Marine Aquarium Societies of Australia Incorporated is an incorporated association within the state of Victoria. Therefore, it has a constitution / rules that guide the operating of the organisation and a copy can be found here, MASA Inc Rules.
